Game-Changing Technology
MidWest Materials, Inc. is a third generation family-owned steel service center located in Perry, Ohio. Over the past 70 years, MidWest Materials has grown and adapted to their customers' demands of higher quality, close tolerance steel.

Most recently, MidWest Materials began a search for a new stretch leveling system to increase their capacities and provide additional products. After talking to friends and competitors about their options, they decided to go with Red Bud Industries due to several major factors.

"We are extremely happy with the installation and the products coming off of the line. We expect that it will be a game-changer in providing heavy gauge, high-strength steel to the manufacturing world."
